

5 REASONS TO DECLARE YOUR PLANNED GIFT

It's Non-binding

Declaring your intent to leave a planned gift to SDSU is not a legally binding obligation. Planned Gifts are:

Flexible - you can change the amount or purpose of your gift at any time.

Versatile - you can structure your gift in many ways

Convenient - you have access to your assets throughout your lifetime

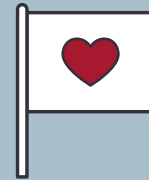

Facilitate Easier Administration

When planned gifts have been documented prior to receiving them, our gift processing team can get the gift to the college, department, or program of your choosing faster because they simply follow your instructions.

Honor Your Wishes

Planned gifts can support the college, department, or program you feel most connected to. When you document your planned gift, you're ensuring we understand your intentions exactly and how to best honor your wishes.

You Inspire Others

When you document your planned gift - you are encouraging others to follow in your footsteps and leave their legacy at SDSU too.

You'll become a member of the SDSU Heritage Society

Member Benefits Include:

- An invitation from the President to an annual donor appreciation event
- Invitations to sporting events
- Invitations to other exclusive University events throughout the year
- A distinctive lapel pin & annual gift
- Annual tax and estate planning guides
- The satisfaction of supporting future Aztecs
